

JHI_ tables are JHipster built ins for user management and audit. They aren't part of the domain model, but you might want to use them as the base for creating users in the new system.

These tables don't have foreign key relationships but they are functionally Foreign key tables. Their member_id column references id in the member table.

These are utility views used for various things in the system.